PRESS INFORMATION

Members of the working press are welcome to visit the University of Maryland Baltimore County as often as possible. It would be appreciated if members of the media who plan to cover UMBC home athletic events would contact the Sports Information Office prior to their visit in order that every effort can be made to assure their comfort.

News about UMBC athletics is released every week from the Sports Information Office. Weekly statistics are also distributed and the radio and television outlets are supplied with complete information about the progress of the season and outstanding performers. We look forward to every opportunity to supply the press with special features, to arrange interviews, and to fill requests for special information, photographs, and passes.

Complete statistics are compiled and released about 20 minutes after the end of each home basketball game. A telecopier is available to the press at UMBC home contests and there is telecopier service in the office. You are invited to call or write any time: Dan O'Connell, Sports Information Director, UMBC, Catonsville, Md. 21228. Office phone: 301-455-2905. Home: 301-323-4804.

UMBC: a Part of the Total University

Barely a decade old, the University of Maryland Baltimore County has emerged as a leading academic and cultural institution in the county, state, and region. Located on 470 acres in southwestern Baltimore County, UMBC opened in 1966 and has granted degrees to nearly 4,000 students. Truly a comprehensive university center, UMBC, through scholarship and research, has aided in the creation and development of new knowledge and techniques. The new knowledge and techniques have become part of the instructional content at the undergraduate as well as the graduate levels. All of these activities enrich what is the single most observable function at a university—the classroom interaction between students and faculty.

UMBC offers 23 undergraduate programs in the liberal arts and sciences, and numerous professional and pre-professional programs. These professional and pre-professional programs include teacher education, social work, nursing, pharmacy, dental hygiene, medical technology, pre-optometry, physical therapy, radiologic technology, pre-law, pre-dentistry, and pre-medicine. Combined degree programs are available in medicine, law, and dentistry. Programs in the undergraduate school have been developed with the emphasis on future employment. UMBC students maintained the highest rate of acceptance into professional school of any public institution in the state.

Graduate programs are available at both the Master's and Ph.D. levels. Programs are available in education, biology, biochemistry, history, mathematics, policy sciences, psychology, sociology, and urban studies. Many of the programs are interdisciplinary and unique in the region. The graduate program draws upon the resources of the total University of Maryland and is recognized as one of the finest in the country.

UMBC is proud of its outstanding faculty. During the 1977 fiscal year, the faculty was awarded in excess of three million dollars in competitive grants and contracts. These substantial grants and contracts enable UMBC faculty members to make original contributions to their academic fields and assist in bettering the quality of life at the local, state and national levels. The active research and publishing of faculty enriches the classroom experience for UMBC students. Many students also have the opportunity to assist faculty in the research process.

UMBC also has an up-to-date library with more than 350,000 volumes. In addition, the library offers the general public open access to its various services, including listening facilities, records, and a vast area of Special Collections. The library also sponsors art and photography exhibits on a continuing basis throughout the year. These exhibits, displayed in the main gallery, are free to the public and are available for viewing during all hours the library is open.

UMBC competes in 16 intercollegiate sports for men and women. A member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA), and the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW), the UMBC program is one of the fastest improving programs in the nation.

Fully accredited by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, UMBC has been under the leadership of Dr. John Dorsey since July 1, 1977. Dr. Dorsey is the fourth chancellor in UMBC's 12-year history.

DR. JOHN DORSEY, Chancellor

Dr. John Dorsey assumed the position of Chancellor at the University of Maryland Baltimore County on July 1, 1977. Dr. Dorsey is the fourth chancellor in UMBC's 12-year history, replacing interim chancellor Dr. Louis Kaplan.

Dr. Dorsey came to the Baltimore County campus of the University after a distinguished 14-year career as a professor and a top administrator at the University of Maryland's College Park campus.

Dr. Dorsey joined the College Park economics faculty in 1963. In 1965, he took a one-year leave from the University of Maryland to serve as staff economist on President Johnson's Council of Economic Research. He returned to College Park and served as Director of the Bureau of Business and Economic Research for four years, administrative vice-chancellor the past seven years, and was acting chancellor at College Park in 1974-75.

As chancellor of UMBC, Dr. Dorsey is the chief administrator of the University of Maryland's newest of five campuses. UMBC is a facility with 6,000 students, a faculty of 335.

Born June 13, 1936, the Hagerstown, Md. native is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Maryland College Park. He attended the London School of Economics on a Rotary Foundation scholarship and received his Ph.D. in economics from Harvard University in 1964.

Dr. Dorsey has served as consultant to the Federal Commerce Department, the Department of Defense, the Council of Economic Advisors to the President, and the United States Bureau of Budget.

DR. JAMES C. MOHR, NCAA Faculty Representative

Professor James C. Mohr, UMBC's NCAA faculty representative, has been a member of the University's history department since 1969. A letterman and Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Yale University, Dr. Mohr holds a Ph.D. from Stanford University. The author of numerous scholarly articles, Dr. Mohr has edited one book, Radical Republicans in the North, (Johns Hopkins Press), and written three others.

His latest book, Abortion in America, (Oxford University Press), was released last year and drew rave reviews. His other two books are The Radical Republicans and Reform in New York During Reconstruction (Cornell University Press, and The Nineteenth Century Origins of Abortion (Oxford University Press).

E. RICHARD WATTS, JR., Director of Physical Education and Athletics

A former All-American lacrosse player at the Johns Hopkins University, Dick Watts is beginning his twelfth year as Director of Physical Education and Athletics at UMBC. A 1956 graduate of Hopkins with a B.S. degree in political science, Watts became athletic director at UMBC in 1967 and has built UMBC into one of the most outstanding programs in Division II of the NCAA.

A star athlete in football, baseball, and basketball at Baltimore Polytechnic Institute, Watts entered Johns Hopkins, where he began his long-time association with lacrosse. Also an all-conference running back and an outstanding wrestler, Watts was a standout defenseman who captained the Hopkins squad his senior year. He was also selected to the South all-star team and captained his team to a 20-10 rout of the North in the 1956 North-South all-star lacrosse game.

Upon graduation from Hopkins, Watts was named athletic director at the Friends School where he remained until 1963. At Friends, he was the head football, wrestling, and lacrosse coach. In 1963, his lacrosse team captured the MSA championship. In 1964, he joined the Poly staff where he coached his alma mater to the 1964 public school championship.

He returned to the collegiate ranks in 1964, joining the Kenyon (Ohio) program. At Kenyon, he was the offensive co-ordinator for football, and head coach of the lacrosse and wrestling teams.

Watts returned to his native Baltimore in 1968 as athletic director at UMBC. He earned a Masters of Education degree from Loyola College in 1972. Since his arrival at UMBC, the intercollegiate program has grown to include 16 sports for men and women. A 4,000-seat fieldhouse was opened in 1973 and 4,500-seat UMBC Stadium opened three years later. An eight-lane pool with a diving well was added on to the fieldhouse last year.

Since Watts became head lacrosse at UMBC in 1971, his teams have compiled an overall record of 77-43. In addition, Watts coached UMBC to four straight Mason-Dixon Conference championships and the Retrievers have received six consecutive NCAA II championship tournament bids. Last year's team went to the NCAA semi-finals for the second straight year.

A member of the United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association's executive board and a past president of the USILA, Watts has coached 19 All-Americans in his eight years as UMBC coach. Last spring, he was awarded the tenth Harold E. Johnson Memorial Award at the Hero's Banquet, given for outstanding contributions toward the promotion and development of lacrosse.

He and his wife, Marci, reside in Ruxton, Md. with their four children, Ricky, 18, David, 16, Allen, 8, and two-year old daughter Page.

BILLY JONES, Head Basketball Coach

In his fifth season as basketball coach at UMBC, Billy Jones has assembled what he considers the deepest team he's ever had. "I think we can go 12 deep on the bench without giving up a thing," he says.

Last year, Jones raised many eyebrows when he led UMBC to its first Baltimore Metro Classic championship, beating 1977 NCAA-II regional runner-up University of Baltimore, 1976 NAIA champion Coppin State College, and 1977 NCAA-II regional champion Towson State University. Not only did the Retrievers win the title after losing 12 straight Metro Tourney games, but they did it without 6-8 leading scorer John Goedeke, who was sidelined with a foot injury.

In addition, UMBC won its first six games and achieved a national ranking before an overtime loss to New York Tech in the finals of the Maryland Classic snapped the win streak.

UMBC experienced its first winning season and earned an ECAC southern regional tourney bid last year. But Jones was not completely satisfied by the 15-13 record. "We didn't deal with prosperity very well," he pointed out. "Teams that used to take us for granted were treating us differently. By winning our first six games, we told everyone that we were a good team and they were ready for us, and we had trouble dealing with the respect we earned."

Jones, who captained the 1968 University of Maryland College Park basketball team, travelled an unusual path to the head basketball job at UMBC. Upon graduation from College Park, the former Towson High School star was an assistant coach of the Terrapin junior varsity in 1968-69.

A year later, he moved across town to American University where he was an assistant under Tom Young, the current coach at Rutgers University. While at American, he was instrumental in recruiting many Eagle players who took A.U. to the 1973 National Invitational Tournament. Among the players he recruited is All-American Kermit Washington, currently an NBA player with the San Diego Clippers.

In July, 1970, Jones moved to the West Coast as an assistant at the University of California Santa Barbara. He was an integral part of a rebuilding program which netted 20-6 and 17-9 seasons. In June, 1972, he became an assistant at Stanford University, a member of the Pacific-10 Conference.

At Stanford, he served as an assistant coach for two years, leading the junior varsity team to a pair of winning seasons and helping the varsity to its first winning mark in six years.

An excellent athlete, Jones was invited to tryout camps by the Philadelphia 76ers of the NBA and the Denver Broncos of the NFL.

Jones earned his Master's Degree in Administrative Physical Education from the Cal Poly San Luis Obispo in 1975.

JIM SMITH, Assistant Coach

Jim Smith always likes to look on the bright side of things. During his first two seasons at UMBC when the Retrievers won only 14 of 45 games, Smith used to talk about how he was able to devote his time in March to full-time recruiting because there was no post-season play for UMBC.

Now, however, Smith wouldn't mind if he had to postpone full-time recruiting until April because of UMBC's involvement in post-season play.

A veteran basketball observer, Smith is beginning his fifth season as Billy Jones' assistant at UMBC. Prior to his arrival at UMBC, Smith had served as assistant coach at the University of Baltimore, Wheeling College, and the Johns Hopkins University.

At Baltimore, he was an assistant under Paul Baker and went to Wheeling with Baker in 1971. At Wheeling, he helped Baker win 17 games in one season after a three-year period in which the Cardinals won only 18 games.

He returned to the city of Baltimore in 1973 and served as Gary Rupert's assistant at Hopkins. In 1973-74, the Blue Jays had their best season ever, posting a 17-8 record and earning their first NCAA Division III Tournament berth. Ironically, Rupert is now assistant athletic director at UMBC.

A graduate of the University of Baltimore and Loyola High School, Smith is a life-long resident of Baltimore. He has served with the Middle Atlantic Scouting Bureau and is co-director of Wes Unseld's summer basketball camp. During the summer, he is a frequent clinician at numerous camps and clinics.

Smith, who earned his Master's Degree in Recreation from Morgan State University, is chairman of the Athletic Academic Advisory Committee and also serves on the UMBC Affairs Committee.

An outstanding judge of basketball talent, Smith is responsible for scouting and recruiting at UMBC. Now that UMBC has established itself as a good basketball school, Smith feels it is important to keep continuity in the program, so that UMBC is not faced with a rebuilding situation.

"A good basketball program replaces a few people each year," he says. "The type of student-athlete we have in our program is representative of the student body. That's very important. Our players are a credit to themselves and UMBC both on and off the court."

Smith has two sons, 15-year old Dean, a sophomore at Loyola High School, and 12-year old Brendan. He and his wife Terry reside in Catonsville.

MIKE BECKETT, Student Assistant

A native of Stockton, Md., senior Mike Beckett is starting his second season as a student assistant of the UMBC basketball team.

Beckett, a graduate of Pocomoke High School on Maryland's eastern shore, was an All-Bayside Conference guard for Coach Carey Reece's team. In 1975-76, he was a starting guard on UMBC's junior varsity team, averaging nearly 11 points per game. As a sophomore, he played on the Retriever varsity, before ending his playing career to pursue his coaching interests.

Coach Billy Jones feels that Beckett's fine attitude and ability to apply himself makes him an asset to the UMBC basketball program. "Even as a player," says Jones, "Mike showed he had the desire to learn. He is a very smart young man who will help us a great deal this year."

MARK MASSIMINI, Student Assistant

After playing on the UMBC varsity for three years, Mark Massimini is beginning his first season as a student assistant.

A graduate of Cardinal Gibbons High School, Massimini was honored as the Catholic League's "Athlete of the Year" in 1975 after an outstanding scholastic career in soccer, basketball, and baseball.

At UMBC, Massimini was a starting guard his first two years, earning all-conference honors in 1977. The 21-year old senior is also the starting third baseman for the Retrievers' baseball team, which has qualified for the NCAA Division II regionals the last two years. In 1977, he achieved a rare accomplishment when he made all-conference in basketball and baseball, after hitting .422.

A geography major, Massimini will aid the '78-79 Retrievers with his experience, according to Coach Jones. "Mass has a fine knowledge of basketball," says Jones, "and with the younger players we have on the team this year, I feel he'll help us a great deal."

OUTLOOK — 1978-79

In its first season as an ECAC (Eastern College Athletic Conference) Division II independent, the University of Maryland Baltimore County basketball team returns nine lettermen from last year's 15-13 team, the best squad in UMBC's nine-year history of the basketball program.

"The thing that I like best about this team," says fifth year coach Billy Jones, "is its depth. I feel we can go 12 deep on the bench without giving up a thing."

While UMBC has nine lettermen, the fact that five are seniors excites Jones even more. "The seniors will be our strength," he predicts. "They're the ones who got this program started four years ago, and they're the ones who will take us wherever we go this year."

Included among the five seniors are a pair of three-year starters, 6-9 forward John Goedeke and 6-4 guard Jack Kane. Both graduates of Baltimore County's Parkville High School, Goedeke and Jack Kane rank number one and three respectively on the UMBC all-time scoring list.

Goedeke, who became UMBC's all-time scoring leader last February, has 1293 points. He is also likely to finish his career as UMBC's all-time leading rebounder. A third team all-district selection last year, Goedeke averaged 17.3 points per game and 9.5 rebounds as he made the Academic All-American team for the second time. An outstanding shooter, Goedeke has a lifetime field goal percentage of .583 and has finished sixth and seventh nationally in that department the last two years. He is a fixture at the power forward.

Jack Kane, UMBC's all-time assist leader, has 940 career points to rank third on the scoring list. A two-time ECAC all-star last season, Kane is an outstanding rebounding guard as he averaged six rebounds per game last year, including a career high of 14 against Southampton College. The most valuable player in last year's Metro Classic, Kane was also named all-tournament at the Maryland Classic and is UMBC's all-time free throw percentage leader (.773).

Jack Kane was joined in the Retriever backcourt last year by brother Howie, a 6-2 guard who transferred from American University. Howie Kane averaged 13.3 points per game in a primarily reserve role last year. An outstanding outside shooter, Kane hit .491 from the floor and made the all-tournament team at the ECAC southern regionals. Also a graduate of Parkville High School, Kane is the school's all-time scoring leader and teamed with Goedeke and brother Jack to lead the Knights to the state finals in 1974.

6-5 Mark Clark is also a three-year performer for the Retrievers. A graduate of Loyola High School, Clark is a very heady player who has come through with some big performances in his UMBC career.

A product of Sherwood High School, 6-5 Hank Schulz was hampered by a foot injury most of last season, forcing him to give up his starting forward spot. An Academic All-American in 1977, Schulz is hopeful for a full recovery from his foot problem.

Jones also has veterans in the junior class. 6-7 Doug Dodrill, a product of Calvert Hall, came on strong at the end of last season and laid claim to the starting post position.

5-10 Jeff Brooks will help Goedeke and Jack Kane captain the team in the role of "sixth man." An excellent defensive player and a fine ball-handler, the Annapolis High School grad has led the Retrievers in assists two years in a row.

6-6 sophomore Reggie Nance had a memorable debut last year when he led the Retrievers to the Metro title, gathering all-tournament and ECAC "Rookie of the Week" honors in the process. A likely starter on the front line with Goedeke and Dodrill, Nance grew two inches over the summer and with added maturity, should be much more consistent this season.

Depth at forward comes from Clark and Schulz, as well as 6-3 sophomore swingman Greg Mobley. A graduate of Douglass High School in Baltimore, Mobley started nine games last season.

The Retrievers also have an impressive contingent of freshmen, with two guards, a pair of forwards, and a center joining the roster. In the backcourt, the Retrievers welcome the addition of 6-4 Guy Cottman and 6-3 Zena Galloway. Cottman is a fine all-around player from Wildwood, N.J. while Galloway played at Central High School in Prince Georges County. Jones expects both players to help out as freshmen.

6-6 Tom Vines is a player with unlimited potential who comes from Archbishop Carroll High School in Washington, D.C. Jones thinks that only a lack of experience is keeping Vines from becoming an outstanding college player.

On the front line, 6-6 Page Elliott will help out. A graduate of Thomas Johnson High School in Frederick, Elliott led his team to the state finals last year. A scholastic center, he is making the adjustment to a collegiate forward. 6-3 Bill Larash, from Arundel High School, impressed the coaching staff with his hustle. Last year, he led Arundel with a scoring average of 19 points per game.

"We have the makings of a very good team," says Jones, who captained the 1968 University of Maryland Terrapins. "The seniors are the key. We're playing a very strong schedule, certainly the most regional we've ever played, with many tough games on the road. Our goal is to get into post-season play and see what happens."
