Title: Joseph L. Arnold papers
Call Number: Coll111
Creator: Arnold, Joseph L.
Dates: 1970-2003
Size: 59 boxes (56 linear feet)
Language: English
Abstract: These papers contain more than three decades of research on Baltimore history by the urban historian and longtime UMBC History Department faculty member Joseph L. Arnold. Within this collection are Dr. Arnold's manuscripts for two works on the history of Baltimore. The bulk of the collection is Dr. Arnold's extensive Baltimore subject files, mostly containing reproductions from 19th century editions of the Baltimore Sun interspersed with his hand-written notes on various topics. His research interests covered the economic, social and political history of Baltimore, covering topics ranging from marriage and divorce to manufacturing, from city neighborhoods and annexation to weather and seasons, and from streetcars to sanitation. The final two series cover his chapters, articles, reviews and conference papers as well as his teaching materials.

Administrative/Biographical Note

Joseph Larkin Arnold (1937-2004) was a prominent urban historian and a professor and leader at UMBC, serving on the faculty of the History Department beginning in 1968. Known as "the dean of Baltimore historians," Arnold published over 60 articles, chapters, and reviews on the topics of American cities, Baltimore history, historical research methods, and comparative urban history. Arnold is the namesake of the Albin O. Kuhn Library's Joseph L. Arnold Maryland History Collection, which includes over 3,300 volumes on Maryland history, biography, and literature as well as newspapers, manuscripts and pamphlets.

Scope & Content

Arrangement

The collection is organized into five series: Series I: Chronological manuscript drafts, 1995-2003. Series II: Thematic manuscript drafts, 1994-2000. Series III: Subject files, 1865-1918 (bulk). Series IV: Written material, 1974-1991. Series V: Teaching materials, 1970-2002.

Provenance Information

Provenance and Acquisition Information

This collection was donated by Mary Jane Arnold, Joseph L. Arnold's widow, in 2004. She moved the files to the Special Collections department in the UMBC Library between 2011 and 2014.

Processing Note

This collection was processed under the supervision of Archivist Lindsey Loeper and graduate assistant Aunaleah Gelles. Prior to transferring the boxes to UMBC, Mary Jane Arnold started organizing the files into a subject list and describing their contents. Each file was grouped by subject in the 14 categories established by Dr. Arnold. In fall 2013, the boxes were numbered and the refolding process began; files containing too many materials were broken into several parts and duplicative files were combined when possible. Boxes and folders were replaced but the original order was maintained as closely as possible. His collection of research notes and writings on Victorian Baltimore were kept together and added as a new subseries near the end of Series III. His bibliographic reference materials, dating from his arrival at UMBC in 1969 to 2003, were also added to the end of Series III.

Approximately 100 student papers were removed and placed under restricted use. These are stored separately from the rest of Series III. This finding aid reflects the status of the Arnold papers in April 2014. Changes should be expected within all of the current series and sub-series as additional materials are processed by Special Collections staff.

Series III. Baltimore subject files

Date: 1797-2001

Extent: 33 boxes (41.25 linear feet)

Description: Dr. Arnold compiled extensive research files during his research on Baltimore City. This series is still being processed and will continue to grow. When completed, a final and more extensive folder list will be made available. The series is divided into 14 sub-series which reflect the categories established by Dr. Arnold. Notes about the contents of the folders in this series - such as the number of articles, published article titles, or other available formats - are available for many of the folders. These notes have been provided for researchers. To access, select the "additional information" link.
